The 'Fast 50' program was launched by Deloitte in the USA in 1995. Deloitte Germany has been honoring the top performers in the technology sector for nine years now. Worldwide, the award has become a hallmark of entrepreneurial success in the technology industry. The award recognizes datango as the 26th fastest growing technology company in Germany based upon the company's trailing 5 year growth rate. datango also received the award in 2010 (ranked 28th) and in 2007.

Recognizing datango's achievement, Dieter Schlereth, Partner and Industry Leader TMT Germany at Deloitte, said, "This year's ranking shows that technology companies with B2B products were especially successful in achieving market share. This is evident, in particular, by companies like datango that have demonstrated continued sustained growth as proven by their presence on the Fast 50 listing in Germany on 3 occasions in the past 5 years."

Oswald Zimmermann, Chief Executive Officer of datango, accepted the award which was presented on November 3 in Frankfurt and commented, "We're proud to have received this award from Deloitte and it serves to recognize the significant contribution that our employees, partners and customers have made in shaping datango into the company we are today."

Mr. Zimmermann continued, "The fact that we have now received this award on three occasions underscores our ability to devise and successfully execute against our growth plans which have included the international expansion of the company and the diversification of revenues through our channel development strategy. As a result, more than 1,000 organizations now leverage our technology around the world and we are able to support them as a global company with solid financial performance. 2011 has been an important and economically outstanding year for datango.”
